The screenshot displays the 'Publisher' interface for 'eJournal Plus'. The left sidebar contains navigation links: 'Publish a New Article', 'In Publishing Process' (with sub-links for 'Accepted Manuscripts' and 'Galley Proofs'), 'Published' (with sub-links for 'Published Articles' and 'Articles in Press'), and 'Publisher Options' (with sub-links for 'Manage Volumes' and 'Manage Issues'). The main content area is titled 'Publish a New Article' and contains the 'Article Information' form. The form fields are annotated with numbered circles: 1 points to the 'Volume / Issue' dropdown (set to 'Articles in Press, 1'), 2 points to the 'Document Type' dropdown (set to 'Research Note'), 3 points to the 'DOI' field, 4 points to the 'Article Title' field (containing 'The Negative Impact of Sugar on the Brain'), 5 points to the 'Running Title' field (also containing 'The Negative Impact of Sugar on the Brain'), 6 points to the 'Abstract' text area (containing a paragraph about sugar's impact on the brain), and 7 points to the 'Keywords' field (containing 'calorie-rich,,,Sugar,,,Brain'). The 'Full Text' field at the bottom has a rich text editor toolbar.

1. Define volume and issue

The image shows the 'Manage Authors' form. It has a title 'Manage Authors' and a list of fields: Email Address, Title, First Name, Middle Name, Last Name, ORCID, Degree, Position, Phone, Country, City, and Affiliation. Each field has a corresponding input box. Below the fields, there is a checkbox labeled 'Please select if he/she is the Corresponding Author'. At the bottom of the form, there are buttons for 'Save Author' and 'Reset'. Below the form, there is a table with the following columns: #, Full Name, Email Address, and Affiliation. The table contains one row with the following data: 1, alina schmidt*, alina.schmidt.de..., Berlin university of applied science. To the right of the table, there are buttons for 'Save', 'Cancel', 'Save & New', and 'Save'. There are also buttons for 'Add', 'Edit', and 'Delete' for each row in the table.
